Seven Gulfs Activity
Choice 1: On facebook, stop a particular friend's posts from displaying.

This project is perfect, as there are a group of people that I have always wanted to hide from my page but never came around to actually doing so.

However, the process was VERY easy and straightforward. From my newsfeed I went to the post by the user and clicked on the small arrow on the top right (which highlights when hovered over).

In clicking, a dropdown menu appears and the second option on the menu asks to block all posts from this user. Clean, simple, effective.

To be honest, the only way to make it even simpler is to have a "block all posts from this user" directly on the post; instead of clicking the dropdown menu. However, the issue with this is the question of what would you include on the bost and what wouldn't you; as there are quite a few other items in the dropdown that could be brought directly into the post as well.
